

Name of Project: Saving Valentine's Day from Apollo

Were you a project presenter for this project:      yes      no

Briefly describe the work that you personally did to contribute to this project:

I was able to supply one omen type of two omens regarding the sun in this project. Not only did I supply the omen, but the sources for the omens to relate to the paper. I also contributed a general wording for the section regarding the omen, giving less work for the paper writer to do.

What was the hardest part of this project?

The hardest part was finding sources to relate omens to the gods and to state they are omens. The sources seemed very specific, and you had given some information on connection to the gods that when experienced feel like omens, and yet there are not sources. I am unsure if that means they are not actually omens then, but they certainly felt that way.

What surprised you most about it?

When you open yourself up to seeking omens, they seem to appear much more. I have memories of feeling omens in the past, but when open and looking the frequency increases greatly.

What do you think you've learned from completing this project?

I learned that overall the use of omens in life is not something that is so difficult. There are also many instances of omens that go unnoticed or unbothered simply because we don't want to list.

Other comments:

Please list the members of your group (yourself first) and rate their effort in this project.

Name	None	Poor	Average	Excellent
1. Noah Miller		Excellent
2. Noah Cummins		Excellent
3. Monet Butler		Excellent

- |                  |           |
|------------------|-----------|
| 4. Brady Stoemer | Average   |
| 5. Allyson       | Excellent |
| 6. Allie Schrunk | Average   |